Twelve people were indicted Tuesday at Cairo by the special grand jury of the Alexander county circuit court for being in the mob which stormed the county jail on the night of February 17 last. The offense with which they are charged is not a felony, as they did not get so far as to break down the jail doors. As a consequence the extreme penalty on conviction is a fine of not exceeding $500 and a jail sentence of not to exceed six months in the county jail.

Speaker Geo. S. Wilson has moved from Union county to Owenton to make his home, thereby vacating his seat as representative from Union county. In the event of an extra session, it is presumed that a new speaker will have to be elected by the House.

CHEAPER THAN WATER.

It has been ascertained that the streets of Hickman can be oiled cheaper than sprinkled with water, according to the sprinkling rates as charged heretofore.

We take one business house on Clinton street for example. This firm has 34 square yards as their half of the street in front of the building, and pay 75¢ a month for water sprinkling, making a total of $3.75 for the season.

Crude oil can be put on the same 34 yards for 68¢ per application, or $1.36 for the season, two applications being sufficient for the season. Or, if, for the sake of argument, it required an application of oil each month, it would still be cheaper, as it would cost only 68¢ against 75¢.

The Courier doesn't claim to be authority on the results obtained from oiling the streets, but many towns using it are very enthusiastic over the results.

Cashier Reed, of the Hickman Bank, wrote last week to the Mayor of Greenville, Miss., where oil is used asking what he thought of it. Following is his reply:

Greenville, Miss.,
March 25, 1910.

Mr. W. C. Reed,
Hickman, Ky.

Dear Sir:

Replying to yours of the 23rd inst., will say that about six months ago we tried 6,000 gallons No. 5 Standard Asphalt Road Oil on our streets and that our city council and citizens were so well satisfied with the experiment that the council contracted for five tank cars of oil, aggregating about 32,000 gallons; 12,000 of which has been received and put on the streets, and the balance is on the way.

Our experience is that it will keep down the dust for four or five months and I think that several applications will permanently improve the road bed. These applications to be made at longer intervals as they are repeated.

It takes about half gallon of oil to the square yard for the first application, and less thereafter. This oil costs us 3 1/2¢ per gallon f. o. b. Greenville, and about one-fourth of a cent per gallon to distribute.

For the experiment the Standard Oil Co. furnished an expert to put on the oil. We use our water sprinkling wagons, taking off the water sprinkling apparatus and using a simple device suggested by the expert, which was made and put on the wagons by our local foundry. This appliance is made of 4-inch pipe and perforated with much larger holes than for water as the oil is too heavy to flow through the water sprinkler.

The Standard Oil Co. will send an expert to your city, and I have requested them to do so.

Yours truly,

Wm. Yarger, Mayor.

If oil is cheaper and gives better results, there is no good reason why we should not use it. The increasing traffic on our streets is making the dust problem one of greatest importance.

No More Hangings in Kentucky

New Law Provides for Execution of Criminals by Electrocution at Penitentiary

In accordance with the provisions of a new law enacted by the General Assembly and signed by the Governor the death penalty will be inflicted in the future by means of electricity.

The law becomes effective June 15.

This means that no more scaffolds will be erected in the state to be used in hanging convicted men. The electric chair probably will be installed in the Frankfort penitentiary.

Back of the new law is an interesting story. It was framed by Jno. R. Pflanz, with the assistance of Judge Carroll, of Eminence, several years ago. It was up for consideration at three different sessions of the Legislature before it was looked upon with favor.

The second time the bill was up was when Sen. McNutt introduced it. This was two years ago. The close contest for U. S. Senator at that time diverted attention from the bill, and it died. At the 1910 session, the bill went through both houses with practically no opposition.

Equipment to Cost $7,000.

It was Herman D. Newcomb who introduced the bill at the last session. He made many alterations in the original measure. He got in touch with officials in New York and the state of Ohio, where the electric chair is used, and collected data as to the probable cost of installing the equipment and the amount that will have to be expended each time a murderer pays the extreme penalty.

Mr. Pflanz says that it will cost about $7,000 to purchase all of the equipment, including the chair. Should the New York mode of execution be adopted, it will cost much more than the amount mentioned.

The law does not state positively that the scene of each execution after June 15 shall be at Frankfort. A clause in the bill plainly says that the electric chair shall be placed in "a penitentiary" somewhere in the state, the place to be decided by the Prison Commission; therefore it may be at Eddyville.

A faint flutter of the pulse and another signal is given. The current is again applied and again the body plunges forward. There is no sound in the room except the creaking of

Description of the "Chair."

At Charlestown, Mass., just across the river from Boston, the condemned man dons a suit of black the day on which the death watch is placed upon him. This habit is cut after the fashion of a sailor suit and is worn by the convicted person two or three days before the penalty is paid.

The prisoner is never told by the warden of the prison just when the execution will take place. He is taken by surprise at midnight when his cell is opened by deputies and these three words fall upon his ear:

"We are ready."

Between two men, with a priest bringing up the rear, the march to the chair begins. Down the long corridor, their heels striking hard upon the cement floors, the little party of men wend their way. Suddenly they pass through a door and all stand in a small room with the electric chair in front of them.

Against the wall are six chairs. These are for the six witnesses. The prisoner steps forward, is given an opportunity to speak his last words, and next is seated in the chair. His hands are strapped to the arms, his ankles to the legs of the chair and a small steel cap, in which is a wet sponge, is fitted over the top of his head. His trousers are slit at the knees so that two little wires can come in contact with the skin.

Executioner Behind Screen.

A signal is given. The executioner behind a screen, pulls a lever, and the body plunges forward, straining hard at the straps. As long as the current is on the convicted man is elevated in the air. At the end of one minute the current is turned off and the condemned sinks back limply in the leather seat. Physicians then step forward, feel the pulse and listen to the heart beats.

In the room except the creaking of the leather straps that are taxed to their full strength by the plunging forward of the victim. Two minutes go by and again the current is shut off.

Seldom or ever is it necessary to apply the current the third time, for two shocks of 1,000 volts the first time and 2,500 volts the second time have always proved sufficient. However, in some instances it has been necessary to give condemned men three applications before life is extin-

"Man-Killing" Davis

The official executioner of New York State is called by the "yellow" journals of the East "Man-killing" Davis. He has a record for executions. He is employed by three or four of the Eastern States. His fee is $75 for each execution, and it is said that he has in his time sent more than 75 men to eternity.

LOOKS BETTER NOW.

According to a decision made by the referee in the Geo. Hardy estate last Friday afternoon, the farmers who had wheat stored in the elevator there will stand a chance to receive a very good per cent of the value of their wheat.

Those holding receipts for No. 3, will receive about 60 per cent, and "no grade" people will get the full amount, or 94 cents for every bushel. Those having No. 2 will have to participate as general creditors, as no fund is provided for that grade. They stand a chance to get about 20 per cent, we understand.

This will beat losing the whole thing; but hereafter farmers will find it cheaper and more satisfactory to do their own "storing." Farmers in other sections of the country hold their wheat until the market gets right—why not us?

The federal grand jury at Chicago has indicted the National Packing Co., and ten subsidiary concerns for violating the anti-trust law for combining to control the price of meats. The effect will be to dissolve the National Packing Co., but mark our prediction, the trust will be doing business at the old stand the next time you hear from them.

THE Spring Season is at its height. A new hat is the desire and thought of every woman, and never at any time of our business career have we been so well able to meet the demand of nearly every woman with millinery of so much style at such moderate prices.

While our before Easter business was very large we have not allowed our stock to run down, but, on the contrary, are making a larger showing than last week.

You cannot, in justice to yourself, buy a hat without first visiting our department; you have here twice the assortment of trimmed hats and shades to choose from, as you'll find at any other store.

Prices to suit all pocket books.

A MAIL BOX AT THE DOOR.

One of the suggestions of the post master general for economizing in his department is that the people put up little boxes or other receptacles at their front doors, so that the postmen will not have to stand and wait until somebody answers the bell. A great deal of time is wasted by the postmen having to wait. It is in the interest of an efficient and economic service to provide these little conveniences. And then they are not only conveniences for the postmen; they are also for the people of the house. "There is the mail man," says the housekeeper, with her hands in the dishwater or mixing the dough for the family bread—"run, Johnny, to the door, and Johnny is down in the back yard trying to lasso a black cat, but by this time the mail man, thinking no one is at home, goes off with the expected letter from Mary, who is visiting over in Chicago, and so the family is deprived of the pleasure for several hours, simply for the lack of a neat little letter-box at the front door."

The report of the geological survey shows the remarkable growth in the production of natural gas in the United States, the output having risen from $215,000 in 1882 to $54,640,000 in 1908, or 25 times the value 28 years ago. This is a tremendous increase. But the question will be suggested to many minds whether such enormous consumption of natural gas will not soon exhaust the supply. In fact, in one or two localities there have been complaints that during the cold waves of the present winter the natural gas has proved an uncertain reliance for heating purposes, sometimes failing when most needed. A little conservation and more effective regulation might be in order.

The marvellous power of recuperation possessed by the French is already beginning to show the rehabilitation of Paris is beginning. Notwithstanding the damage has mounted in the multimillions, the people are not discouraged by the vast task before them, but have attacked the problem of restoration without delay and in a spirit of courage, which, indeed, is characteristic of the age, and, in connection with the Gallic buoyancy of temperament, may confidently be expected to work miracles.

Dr. Parsons, the Chicago millionaire who has been giving so much money to small colleges throughout the country, says that on April 14 he is going to have a general squaring up with all the institutions to which he has promised money and that he is going on a rampage of giving that will end only when his millions are all gone. "I intend to die penniless," he says, and he really acts as though he meant it.

The London post office, which is closed from Saturday night to Monday morning, now announces that it will deliver letters on Sunday by telephone. Only, you see, you must write your letter and post it before the post office can telephone it. It isn't at all strange that people are saying it will be much easier to do their own telephoning.

A woman in Los Angeles agreed to a divorce for her husband in consideration of a locket and a fur coat. Even the husband's joy at being free must have been somewhat dampened by this slight value placed upon his affection.

This whole meat problem might be quickly solved if a lot of the people who are complaining at the high prices would quit trying to live in the cities and take themselves to the luxuries of farm life.

Stories of the large sums received as tips by New York waiters may bring numerous applications for places in restaurants from people who are willing to be haughtily condescending for less money.

DEALS DEATH ON TRAIN

CONDUCTOR INTERCEDES—GETS A BULLET THROUGH HEART.

Driven from Coach, Still Shooting After Being Shot in Face with Riot Gun.

Wilmington, Del.—An exciting battle in which three men were killed, occurred on a Baltimore & Ohio railroad train this afternoon. The fight began at Newark, Del., and ended in this city. Several persons were wounded in the affray.

The triple tragedy was the result of an altercation between Itheta, who was a passenger, and Williams, the porter in the Pullman parlor car.

Bethel Shoots Porter.

Bethel, who had been drinking heavily, shot the porter through the heart, killing him instantly. When Conductor Wellman saw the porter fall he ran to the scene to remonstrate with the passenger, who still held the revolver in his hand. Itheta fired a second shot into the negro's body. Then without a word Itheta shot Wellman through the heart.

The conductor fell dead in his tracks. Before the passengers could interfere the bold murderer barricaded himself in the toilet room of the Pullman car and threatened to kill the first person who approached. Meanwhile the train reached Wilmington. When it came into the station a hurry call was sent to the police station. A squad of patrolmen, reinforced by park guards and a posse of citizens and trunamans, ran to the scene.

Opens Fire on Police.

The police called upon Itheta to surrender. As an answer he opened the door of the toilet room and opened fire at the police and the crowd from an automatic pistol.

Itheta is believed to have had at least 100 rounds of ammunition, for he succeeded in holding the posse at bay and also held up the train from 5:17 until 6:35. During this time many shots were fired on both sides, until finally all the windows of the car were riddled.

When the battle had lasted about an hour, the police realized they would be unable to drive the man from cover. A call was sent to a local fire company. The firemen responded with their engine. Attaching a high pressure hose to a fire plug, and with the firemen crowded behind trucks and boards, a stream of water was played upon the windows of the toilet room.

The desperado fired a number of shots at the firemen, but they were not injured. Subsequently Itheta, drenched with water, staggered to the platform and the police once more called upon him to surrender. His reply was several shots in quick order from his revolver.

Driven from Car.

Police Captain Evans fired a load of shot into Bethel's face. Notwithstanding this injury, he kept on blazing away. Patrolman Boughman opened fire with a pistol and struck Bethel in the right arm. The desperate man tried to fire again, but Sergeant Kelcher sent in a shot and he fell dead.

While it was believed by some of the passengers who fled when the train reached Wilmington that the desperado was insane, other passengers said he appeared to be sane, with the exception that he had been drinking.

$3.50 RECIPE CURES WEAK KIDNEYS, FREE

RELIEVES URINARY AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, BACKACHE, STRAINING, SWELLING, ETC.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the fore-head and the back-of-the-head aches; the stiffness and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spasms before the eyes, yellow skin; sluggish bowels, swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps, unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the dyspepsia?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I will and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this—Dr. A. E. Robinson, 1001 Lincoln Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power.

It will quickly show you its power once you use it, and I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

An Irresistible Petition.
"And now, lawd-uh," a bit ominously proceeded square-headed Brother Tarr, in his supplication, "in de conviction dat am gwine to take place soon I met up wid Brudder Dingford—sneaky accoun'rel wid side-whiskers dat's been up-allippin' an' up-sidlin' round mub yaller wife—be nootral, Lawd, dat's all I axes—I'll do de rest!"
"I has been, as you kin see for yo'self by de church books, a pillar in good an' efficient stan'in' for lo dese many yeahs, an' de tudder gentleman am a publidin' eldah; so I hasn't de brazen statuary, Lawd, to ax yo' to take mub side in de battle. But if yo' kin't help, does hang off an' be nootral. Git yo'self a comfable place in de shade somers, an' ed down, an' yoll sen one o' de peartest fights yo' ever had de pleasure o' witnessin'. Amen!"

Driven by Hunger to Desperation.
Mrs. Mode had just returned home from the country, to discover her previously well-stocked wardrobe empty. "Good gracious, Herbert," she cried to her husband, "where are all my clothes?" And what in the world is that big black patch out on the lawn?" "Nelly," he replied mournfully, "after I had starved for two whole days, you wrote me that the key of the pantry was in the pocket of your bolero. Well, I don't know a bolero from a box-plated rifle, and I was desperate, so I took all the thinks out on the lawn and burned them. Then I found the key among the ashes."—Success Magazine.

A LITTLE THING
Changes the Home Feeling.

Coffee blots out the sunshine from many a home by making the mother, or some other member of the household, dyspeptic, nervous and irritable. There are thousands of cases where the proof is absolutely undeniable. Here is one.

A wise mother writes:
"I was taught to drink coffee at an early age, and also at an early age became a victim to headaches, and as I grew to womanhood these headaches became a part of me, as I was scarcely ever free from them."

About five years ago a friend urged me to try Postum. I made the trial and the result was so satisfactory that we have used it ever since.

"My husband and little daughter were subject to bilious attacks, but they have both been entirely free from them since we began using Postum instead of coffee. I no longer have headaches and my health is perfect."

If some of these tired, nervous, irritable women would only leave off coffee absolutely and try Postum they would find a wonderful change in their life. It would then be filled with sunshine and happiness rather than weariness and discontent. And think what an effect it would have on the family, for the mood of the mother is largely responsible for the temper of the children.

153 BILLS PASSED.

Solons Pass Two Measures Over Governor Wilson's Veto.

House Leads Senate in New Laws Acted Upon—Thirteen Already in Force Cities Fared Well in Legislation.

Frankfort, Ky.—One hundred and fifty-three bills were passed by the last general assembly. In this number thirteen have become laws, either by receiving the signature of the governor, automatically, or being passed over his veto.

Only two measures were passed over the governor's veto, however. One of these was the bill introduced by John W. Holland, of Shelby county, and aimed at the location of the proposed Lincoln Institute in Shelbyville. The other was the bill introduced by W. F. Klar, of Lexington, providing for the recording of names of persons pooling tobacco or other farm products.

Become Laws Automatically.

Two bills have become laws automatically, they having remained in the hands of the governor ten days without his signature having been attached. Both these bills were introduced by Ronia Linn, of Calloway county. One increases the salaries of circuit judges $1,200 a year, and the other appropriates $30,000 annually for use by the state board of health.

Seven more house bills passed the house and senate than did senate bills. Of the thirteen bills that are now law seven originated in the house.

Other Bills Signed by Governor.

Among other bills that have been signed by the Governor are the following:

Claude M. Thomas' bill, providing for what is known as the indeterminate sentence for convicted persons; Lillard Carter's bill, providing for the printing of all court of appeals decisions; Claude M. Thomas' bill providing for the construction of Frankfort State Hospital; a transportation bill; Harry Schenck's bill appropriating $10,000 to the Home for Incurables in Louisville; J. B. Steer's bill, making warehouse receipts negotiable and transferable; L. W. Arnett's bill, making October 12, Columbus day, a legal holiday.

A few of the bills that were passed, those that have become laws and those yet to be acted upon by the governor, is as follows:

H. B. 51—The Klar bill, providing for the recording of the names of tobacco poolers. Vetoed and passed over veto.

H. B. 53—The Thomas indeterminate sentence bill. Approved by Governor.

H. B. 57—The Holland bill, to prevent location of Lincoln Memorial Institute in Shelby county. Passed over Governor's veto.

H. B. 58—The Linn bill, appropriating $12,000 to enlarge the scope of the State Board of Health. Became law without the Governor's signature.

H. B. 67—The Robertson bill, providing for the collection of delinquent taxes in Louisville. Approved by Governor.

H. B. 83—The Carter bill, providing for the publication of the opinion of the Court of Appeals. Approved by the Governor.

RECIPE FOR ENGLISH MUFFINS

Much Care and Attention Demanded
If Delicacy Is to Be Made Properly Palatable.

Make a batter with one quart of sweet milk (made just warm), two eggs, a piece of butter the size of an egg, a little salt, one-half a cupful of yeast and about three pints of flour. The batter must be thick enough to drop, not run from the spoon. When thoroughly mixed lay a thick cloth over the bowl in which it has been made and set in a warm place to rise; it will take from five to eight hours. If for breakfast let rise over night, and for tea mix after breakfast. Bake in muffin rings on a griddle. Fill each ring two-thirds full, when the bubbles form and stiffen into holes, slip the cake turner under and turn, ring and all. As the muffin cooks and stiffens slip off the rings and let them finish. Baked in rings on a griddle, muffins are very much better than when baked in an oven. If the oven must be used, however, work in sufficient flour when mixing to make a soft dough and let rise in a warm place out of draughts until very light. Turn the dough out on a well-floured pastry board, divide into small pieces and form with the hands into flat round cakes. Cover the muffins on the board and let rise until almost globular, then place them on a hot floured tin and bake them in a quick oven to a light brown. Turn and let the other side brown lightly. Always tear them apart, never use a knife, spread generously with soft butter and serve hot.—Housekeeper.

REQUISITES FOR SOUP MAKING

Having Stock Too Strong is a Thing to Be Avoided—Best Method of Preparing Quick Dumpling.

The secret of making good soup is not in having strong stock. Many persons save the grease from boiled beef, chicken and turkey and keep it in a jar for quick soupmaking. The soup is strong, never as good as when it is fresh, and one soon grows tired of the name. Brisket is a good soup meat, and when thoroughly cooked the liquid can be chilled, freed from the hard lard which rises to the top and made into a palatable soup. Home-made dumplings are much richer than the manufactured kind. A quick dumpling is made as follows: Beat one egg to a froth, add half an eggshell of water, a pinch of salt, a teaspoonful of baking powder and flour sufficient to make a dough just thick enough to drop from a teaspoon. Or thicken it with flour to a dough, roll very thin and cut into tiny strips. When making soup you will find that it can be made more quickly by chopping the ingredients in a meat cutter. However, such soup must be carefully watched or it will scorch. Never add milk or cream to scuffle until it is ready to serve.

Devil's Food.

Melt over a fire a cupful of grated chocolate, one cupful of brown sugar, and one-half cupful of sweet milk; cool and add the yolk of one egg, well beaten, and set aside. Cream one cupful of brown sugar and one-half cupful of butter, add one-half cupful of sweet milk and the yolks of two eggs, the two cupfuls of flour, and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Last, add one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little warm water. Bake in three layers and ice with the following icing: Melt over a kettle five cents' worth of marshmallows, boil until it threads, one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of water with one-half teaspoonful of white vinegar. Beat the remaining white of egg stiff, pour slowly over it the syrup and stir in the marshmallows. Stir in a cool place until cool.

Beans With Celery.

Take one cupful of white or pink beans, wash and put in saucepan, bring to boiling point, pour off water, cover again with boiling water and boil one hour; pour off this water, then pour on enough water to half cover; salt, two scant tablespoonfuls best salad oil. The beans should be perfectly tender, unbroken and the juice absorbed. While the beans are cooling, clean and wash a bunch of table celery and cut into small pieces; add to the beans, mix well and add sufficiently quantity of vinegar or lemon juice to taste. This is an excellent and economical dish.

Plain Italian Roast.

Take a nice piece of veal for roast. If there is a bone in the roast cut around it with a small knife. Between the spaces put a small piece of garlic, salt and allspice to taste. Cut as many times as desired, add more salt and spices to taste and tie a leaf of celery on top of the roast; a small red pepper may be added. Put the roast in a roast pan with some imported olive oil, or melted bacon if preferred to oil. Cook a half hour, according to size of roast.

Marguerites.

One cup powdered sugar, one cup chopped nuts, white of two eggs beaten stiff, one box crisp crackers. Mix sugar, nuts and whites of eggs and drop a little of the mixture in the center of each cracker. Set in oven to brown.

(INCORPORATED)

A POOR PEOPLE.

Two weeks ago the Courier said the assessor's books showed there were only 47 diamonds in Fulton county; when, doubtless, there are more than 47. In Hickman alone Graves county, three times as large as Fulton, made even a worse showing. Now comes Editor Walker, of the Clinton Gazette and says:

"Beleg urged thereto, the editor of the Gazette has gone to the trouble of examining the assessor's books for 1909, and we find that there is not a diamond in Hickman county. We are a plain people, mind you, and the wearing of diamonds is not for us. Those shiny things we have been admiring which some of our fashionably disposed men and women wear, are, we are obliged to conclude, nothing more than paste or glass. And there in the whole county only sixty-five dollars' worth of jewelry, according to the books of the assessor. Think of it!"

Following, on the same subject, the State Auditor has this to say:

"If Kentucky could collect taxes on all the diamonds in the state for just one year the debt could be wiped out and then a balance would be left in the treasury."

He said that there could be found in any of the hundreds of homes in Louisville more diamonds than are listed for taxation in the whole county of Jefferson.

Folks who are rich enough to wear diamonds are amply able to pay taxes. A man owning a $30 dog is compelled to pay $1 tax, and the man owning a $300.00 diamond pays nothing. It's not right.

—O—

Dr. S. K. Davidson came up from Memphis, Sunday, and will spend the week with his family. He will also assist Dr. Crutchfield in the dental office while here. Doc hasn't fattened up much in his new field but still claims to like Memphis first rate. Well, Memphis might be alright—if it wasn't for those garbage rates.

Just one trial will convince you—Schmidt.

It has been said that if it rains on the first day of the month that it will rain 15 days during that month. To gratify our curiosity The Courier put the old saying to the test this month, and find there is nothing to it. On the first day of March it rained, but the other 15 days' rain failed to materialize. Our record shows it rained on March 1st, 8th and 20th, which is even below the average at this season.

Gov. Wilson let the Morgan monument appropriation of $7,500 escape his veto axe.

On page 3 of this week's Courier, will be found a complete digest of what the Legislature did at the last session, giving the text and intentions of each bill.

The combination locks on the safes of both the Hickman Ice & Coal Co. and W. A. Dodds got out of fix last week, and they were forced to almost ruin both of the iron boxes to get them open. Possibly the locks have been tampered with during the wee small hours.

The firm of Cotton & Adams, plumbers and fitters, has been dissolved by mutual consent. Mr. Cotton will continue in the same line, with his shop located on the second floor over their old location. Mr. Adams has formed a partnership with his brother John Adams, known as Adams Bros., which will occupy the old stand on Clinton street. Both firms propose to do anything from laying a Standard Oil pipe line to making a tin soldier. Here's to your success, boys.

ELLISON BROTHERS

HART—REYNOLDS

The third Easter wedding in Hickman Sunday, was that of Miss Nora Hart to Mr. Paul Reynolds, both of this city. The marriage occurred at 3:30 at the residence of the bride in West Hickman, Rev. A. Turkington, the Baptist church officiating. Only a few relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hart and one of West Hickman's most popular young ladies. She is a pretty modest little lady.

The groom is a young man of every worth, honest, industrious and has a host of friends in this city. When he was seven years old he was taken from the home of Orphans' Home, in Louisville, to Miss Nancy Meacham and was reared in the family.

We understand the couple will build a residence in the New Henry Addition where they will make their home.

Congratulations

Mrs. Gertrude A. Gravens, daughter of Thos. C. Bondurant of near Moscow, died at her home near Terrell, Tenn., last Thursday evening. She took a severe fall in her head at the supper table. She fell before she could get to the bed and lived only a short time. She was 6 years old. Deceased leaves a husband and five children, father, mother, three brothers and three sisters to mourn her loss. She was a true and devoted Christian, having been a member of the church at Liberty for a number of years. She was loved by all who knew her. Why she was taken from her loved ones is a question we are unable to solve. It must be left to God, the ruler and judge over all, to comfort us with the one great promise that "He doeth all things well."

NOTICE.

They say a play without a love story is uninteresting. "The Fighting Parson" has not broken this rule for through the entire production a beautiful love story is told. Good substantial love of the lasting kind. This with its pathos and comedy has made "The Fighting Parson" one of the season's successes and everywhere where it has been produced met with instantaneous success from both an artistic as well as financial standpoint. The ministry recommend it because it teaches a moral lesson of right and wrong, yet does not offend the sensitive but sends one home with a feeling of contentment for having seen it. Managers Dillon & Cox of the Lyric, offer it to their patrons for their approval on Thursday April 7th.

WILL ORGANIZE TODAY.

The stockholders of the new Hickman Manufacturing Co., will meet at the Courier office this afternoon at 1 o'clock for the purpose of organizing and electing officers. As soon as this is done the Board of Directors will meet and arrange for buildings and their machinery and proceed to secure timber.

It is expected that the factory will be put into operation in a very short time. This concern will not only be of great benefit to Hickman, but to the surrounding country, and will be a permanent proposition.

J. W. Harned, the promoter of this enterprise who came to us with first class endorsements from banks, wholesale people and railroads, requests the Courier to extend his profound thanks to the public-spirited citizens who have been so ready and willing to help with the new enterprise.

Let the good work go on.

I. W. Dobbins came over from Fulton in his auto yesterday afternoon, making the trip in one hour. When he reached town he noticed his engines were getting hot, and supposing the water was low proceeded to pour cold water in the reservoir, which cracked one of the six cylinders.

When the census is taken, Hickman will not get credit for much more than 50 per cent of her population, owing to the fact that the city limits do not cover any of the suburban property. My all means the city limits should be extended.

Henry Barry, the boy who was tried last week on a charge of breaking into Metheny's grocery store and sentenced to the reform school, has been paroled to his mother and W. J. Barry, pending his good behavior in the future.

R. M. Isler, our popular express agent, says that Monday was the first day since whiskey was voted out of town that the express company failed to bring any booze to Hickman. Are we getting better?

John DeArmond, a Fulton genius, was riding on the streets of Fulton this week in an auto of his own make. It was made of an ordinary runabout.

Mrs. Gertrude Henry, of New Madrid, Mo., spent a few days here this week, the guest of her father, E. E. Reeves and family.

Annie Wess is remodeling her residence in East Hickman.

Mrs. J. P. Maddox was here Friday shopping.

Every night at the Lyric.

Hickman is in need of a first-class dray or transfer company. It is next to impossible to get hauling done, other than local freight, although a half dozen negro draymen and teams be idle at the time. This business could be let by franchise to the highest bidder and give some man a chance to control and do the dray work right. The present service is rotten and done on "skins off the cream" system—light work and heavy pay policy. It is to the interest of the town that the city council make some change in the present service. Business men are daily complaining that they cannot get the work done in this line by the present layout, and we know this to be a fact. Other towns have transfer companies that haul anything, anywhere, any time, without getting down on your knees to them and the city regulates the rates. One negro, when turning down a job that had a little work attached to it said, "I never makes less than $10 or $12 a day with my team." He wanted $10 a day in the shade. We need a good transfer company in Hickman.

Gaoler Johnson arrested Chas. Gardner, a booze merchant of the colored persuasion, with 13 half pints in his possession Saturday night. On Monday, Judge Naylor finished the job by tacking on a sentence of 50 days in jail.

There will be no services at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. The pastor preaches at Keeton on the first Sunday of each month.

Miss Helen Kell, representing the Womans Board of Home Missions of New York, lectured at the Presbyterian church Monday evening.

Fred M. Case and wife will leave Monday for Paducah to spend a few days. From there they go to St. Louis for a short stay.

Miss Ruth Buchanan, of Pembroke, Ky., visited Mrs. M. Amberg and family a few days last week, returning home Sunday night.

Morganfield had a fire Friday morning which destroyed most of the business section. Loss $200,000.

W. A. Dodds, S. D. Luton and Dr. J. O. Stubbs took an auto trip to Union City, yesterday.

The Hickman Furniture Co. handles the best line of Furniture in West Kentucky. Let us show you.

Quality counts in shingles—get the best by buying direct from our mill.—Yates & Kirk Shingle Co., Hickman, Ky.

Walter Eastwood, of Arlington, and Miss Essie Jones, of Fulton, were married in the latter city Saturday night.

Mrs. Hagan and daughter, Mrs. Eliza Henderson, spent a few days with Mound City, Ill., relatives since our last issue.

Perfection Clothes are made for boys who want the best at a reasonable price. Smith & Amberg have a big line of them.

Miss Hettie Williams has returned from St. Louis, where she has been for several weeks attending Keister's dress-making college.

The Hickman Furniture Co. has in stock the most complete stock of undertakers goods. Let us show you when in need of anything in that.

Prof. Morris organized a singing school at Mt. Zion this week. Prof. Morris has been teaching singing schools in this section for twenty years or more.

Mrs. R. G. Robbins, "Doodle Bug" and the latter's little sister, left Friday morning, for a visit in Hickman. They were accompanied to Gibbs by Mr. Robbins.—Mayfield Messenger

All Woodmen are specially requested to meet with the Camp, Wednesday night, April 6th, to arrange for unveiling at Brownsville Cemetery, Sunday, April 10th.—Elm Camp No. 3.

Andy Pounds is now proprietor of the restaurant on the corner, until recently owned by Erle Ward. Andy says he is going to serve regular meals and run the place a little different from heretofore.

Officers Dillon, Wright and Hamby made a 1:30 a. m. raid Sunday on a shanty boat near the incline, and picked up several young fellows who were enjoying a social card game. They were fined $11.50 each in Judge Remley's court Monday.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

The rain yesterday was very welcome.

Mrs. Calvin Arrington, of Moscow, was shopping in Hickman, Friday.

Lee Campbell went to Ashport on the Str. Mengel Box Co. this week.

Mrs. Pope Herring has returned to Union City after a visit to Mrs. T. Swayne.

Mrs. Murley Roper and children spent Sunday and Monday with J. R. Brown and family.

The ladies of the Episcopal Guild will hold a white sale at Mrs. Harry Ellison's next Tuesday afternoon.

The ladies of the Methodist church Sunday morning at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. You are invited to attend.

Miss Annie Ellison, of Hickman, has been the guest of Mrs. Bullock Samuels for several days this week.—Clinton Gazette.

The Ladies' Circle met with Mrs. Easy last Wednesday evening. Topics were discussed for the good of the Circle. Refreshments were served.

Rev. David C. Wright, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, Paducah, accepted the invitation to preach the baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of Hickman College.

Miss Dora Smith, County School Superintendent, is sending out to the trustees of the various school districts in the county blanks to be used in taking a school census. The census will be taken in April.

We have it on good authority that the city council will endorse the proposition to oil our streets instead of sprinkling, and several are agitating the oiling of residence streets. Let 'er go.

Pleas Wallace, a white boy about 18 years old, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Rob Gaoler and is charged with carrying concealed deadly weapons. He was employed by Mose Barkett.

St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church services: Sunday School at 10 a. m., Sermon and Holy Communion at 11 a. m., Evening prayer and sermon at 7:30 p. m. Bishop's Visitation.—Rt. Rev. C. E. Woodcock, D. D., Sunday, April 17th.

Leander Robinson, night police of Fulton, came over yesterday, bringing Moody to the jail here. Moody is charged with breaking into a grocery store in Fulton. The other negro that was with him when the deed was done has not been captured.

Success from start to finish is the verdict of the dramatic critic in speaking of W. F. Mann's latest offering "The Fighting Parson" which comes to our local play house April 7th. It's just as the name implies, a pastoral comedy drama with Mr. Wm. Webster Hart as the Parson championed by a dramatic company of extraordinary ability and staged under the personal direction of Mr. Mann himself.

Hubert Williams, one of the boys implicated in the robbery of McWayne's store in West Hickman one night last week, was given a hearing before Judge Naylor Monday. The jury sentenced him to one year in the reform school. Attorneys Remley and Moore represented the defendant and County Attorney Honey was in charge of the State's case.

LATER—Young Williams was paroled in the custody of his father.

Miss Ruth Kimbro and Swayne Walker and Miss Loto Cavitt and John Meacham spent Sunday in Fulton.

A. E. DeBow and Guy Hale attended the Easter dance in Fulton Friday night.

ORBIT OF HALLEY'S COMET

Rarest and Most Brilliant of Wonders Known to Astronomy to Appear After Long Absence.

In a few weeks the evening sky will display one of the rarest and most brilliant wonders known to astronomy. The world famous "Halley's comet," after an absence of 75 years, will again be within our range of vision. As science knows little of the powers of the elements farther out in our solar system and of their influence on the celestial bodies, it is impossible to predetermine the day or the week when the wanderer will come in sight.

Orbit of Halley's Comet.

Astronomers all the world over, however, are prepared for the observation and study of the infrequent visitor.

The comet finishes its elliptical path around the sun in a period of about 75 years. The history of mankind contains several records of its recurrent appearances. In ancient times, when science was in its infancy and superstition ruled the world, comets were looked upon as foreboders of wars and other calamities. And as "Halley's comet" formerly outstripped all of its kind in size and brilliancy, it more than once made humanity terrorstruck. A comparative study of the various descriptions' prove that both in brightness and volume the comet is diminishing.

Have You Tried?

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? We can furnish positive proof that it has made many remarkable cures after all other means had failed.

Women who are suffering with some form of female illness should consider this.

As such evidence read these two unsolicited testimonial letters. We guarantee they are genuine and honest statements of facts.

Cresson, Pa.—"Five years ago I had a bad fall, and hurt myself inwardly. I was under a doctor's care for nine weeks, and when I stopped I grew worse again. I sent for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, took it as directed, and now I am a stout, hearty woman."—Mrs. Ella E. Alkey, Cresson, Pa.

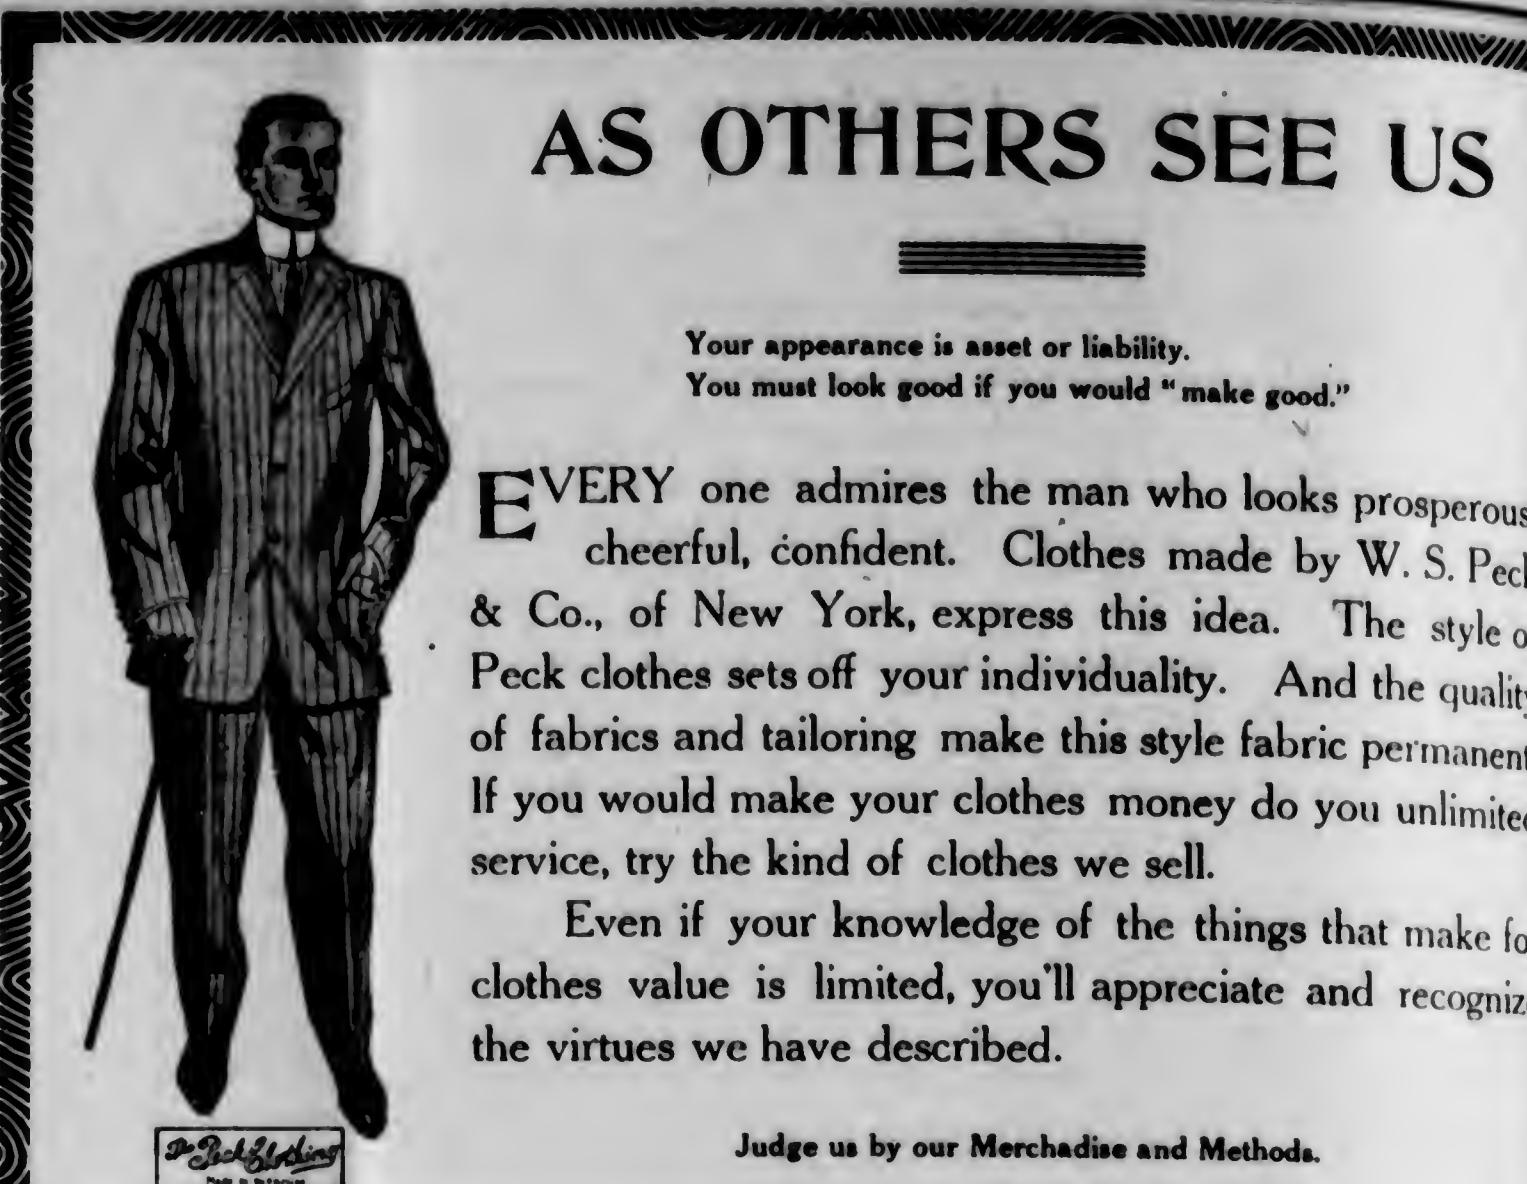

Baird, Wash.—"A year ago I was sick with kidney and bladder troubles and female weakness. The doctors gave me up. All they could do was to just let me go as easily as possible. I was advised by friends to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. I am completely cured of my ills, and I am nearly sixty years old."—Mrs. Sarah Leighton, Baird, Wash.

Evidence like the above is abundant showing that the derangements of the female organism which breed all kinds of miserable feelings and which ordinary practice does not cure, are the very disorders that give way to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who are afflicted with similar troubles, after reading two such letters as the above, should be encouraged to try this wonderfully helpful remedy.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

MODELS for the YOUNG

My child, if your ambition is to be both wise and great, then the men who have been noted are the men to emulate. Julius Caesar, for example, never used the telephone. Yet his fame lingers enduring as the everlasting stone. Alexander never smoked a big and fat cigar. Hannibal would not be tempted to ride on a trolley car.

If you want to find the highway to the citadel of fame To be like the greatest persons then should be your aim.

Washington, with all his honor, never turned an auto crank.

And he died a leading statesman, with some money in the bank;

Old Methuselah never fitted up his house with hardwood floors,

Never wildly knocked a golf ball o'er the spreading oaks;

Bonaparte was fond of study in the watches of the night,

But he wouldn't read the papers by an incandescent light.

If you've chosen something honored as a feature of your name Emulate the people listed in the mighty rolls of fame.

Darwin didn't use the subway when he had to go downtown;

Pharaoh did not play auchre, yet he wore a royal crown;

Hugo drank no ice cream soda, never wore a made-up tie;

Shakespeare wrote his plays in free hand, no typewriter would he buy;

Yet to-day these men are listed with the truly, truly great,

And, my child, they are the people that you ought to emulate.

These are they whose names are graven in the citadel of fame,

And of course they have the secret—make your ways and their the same.

OLD MAN GIDDLES OBSERVES.

Woman's work is never done, but most men's work is only half done.

Once in a while you see a man who seems to wish that he could wear jeweled combs in his whiskers.

The man who invents a won't-come-until string for women's shoes is wasting his time.

One of the great evils of coffee drinking is the way a man talks continually about having stopped it.

Lettuce is cooling. To get the best results, fan yourself with it.

Most of us think that the man who returns a two-cent stamp he has borrowed is as finicky as the one who accepts two cents for one we "borrow."

Pen and ink. The pen—it is a magic wand That drives the sordid world away And calls up scenes from far beyond The prison-housing hills of day. It waves—and lo, another world, A wonder-world, is bid arise Where fancy's banners are unfurled And tossed against the laughing skies.

The ink—it is a magic pool Wherein the future and the past, And sage and soldier, king and fool Await the rousing bugle blast; And we may bend above and look And work our necromance alone Until in written page or book, These hidden things become our own.

And yet—and yet—the wand we clutch; We whisper spells of golden sooth; The pool we gaze in with much And it is dull and dead in truth. The world of fancy blurs and fades And vanishes all tremulous And mocking in its lights and shades The world we have come back to us!

Of Course,

"And is your milk pasteurized?" asks the prospective customer of the dairyman.

"Sure," he replies. "My boys pasteurize the cows every morning."

Next.

At last the cruel man had yielded to the inevitable, and woman had been given the ballot.

While the women were assembled in a grand jubilee meeting the voice of the speaker was drowned by a blare of music.

Around the corner came a band, heading an immense procession of boys and girls bearing banners inscribed:

"Votes for Children!"

NATION'S CAPITAL

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Believes Monkeys Do Not Know Much

WASHINGTON.—Instinctive imitation is all the monkey has. Inferential imitations are not among his mental equipment. Physiologically he is closely related to the greatest mind the world has ever known, but that is where the wise man stops in his drawing of parallels.

Such are the conclusions of Prof. W. T. Shepherd, of George Washington university. He has had a dozen assorted monkeys caged in the laboratory of the university for months, trying to get from any or all of them what a layman would designate a gleam of intelligence.

These little copies of the human being were invited to do dozens of stunts such as trained animals are taught, but the professor made no effort to compel them to learn them. He simply made conditions such that if they had had any reasoning power they would have been able to figure out a way of doing the desired stunts without any further assistance from him. But not one showed what to the professor would be evidence of the reasoning power. Not one showed capacity to watch the professor do a certain thing and then do it himself because he liked the result.

Not one of them, for instance, was able to trip the lever that released a peanut, although the professor showed them often how to do it. All, however, held forth dirty paws begging for the peanut. Not one even made what the men who study mental phenomena call a trial in error.

The professor is satisfied that the monkeys have no memory of things in the sense that they are able to call up a picture, place, person or thing. There is no question that they are able to recall having seen a person when that person stands before them. In other words, they are the equal of any of the domestic animals in that respect.

He can not even subscribe to the Darwin belief that they have imagination, such as Darwin thought dogs have because of the evidence before him that dogs dream in much the same way that human beings do.

Professor Shepherd did not enter upon the experiments with a view to establishing a theory or to disprove a theory advanced by another, but simply to find out for himself the mental capacity or want of capacity of the lumenoids available for his experimental work.

The professor is convinced that when a monkey scratches his head, very much as a man does when he is perplexed, it is no evidence of thought on the part of the monkey. His idea is that it is a purely physiological phenomenon, perhaps due to the similarity of construction of a man and a monkey.

Another thing the professor feels warranted in saying is that the monkey is not any more initiative than many other animals. He shows that monkeys that have had a merry-go-round, in their cages, that revolves when they jump on it, will continue to jump on a contrivance of that kind that is fastened so that it will not revolve and continue to go through the motions necessary to make a proper merry-go-round perform its proper functions, just as if the first trial had produced results.

"Bandits" Seal Promise with Kisses

"Tell me, now, what would you call him?"

The biggest boy's lips framed the words:

"A thief."

And in that way Clerk Harper, listening attentively, knew that the boy had pleaded guilty. Each of them did, for that matter.

The judge ordered the middle-sized youngster to step around and kiss his mother and ask her to forgive him, and to understand that he would never, never do it again, and would have nothing to do with the "Dirty Dozen."

The middle-sized boy sighed. The spirit of the proud rover of the Spanish main told him that to kiss a woman in court, even his mother, was a puerile thing to do.

"Kiss me," whispered the mother.

The boy still stood debating with himself.

"Do you want to go to the reform school?" thundered the Judge.

And then the proud rover of the Spanish main turned and fled, and the erstwhile dirty digit became his mother's little boy again, and was caught in a loving pair of arms, and tears ran down the faces of the boy and his mother and several other women who were in court.

"And remember," said the Judge, "keep away from the gang you call the Dirty Dozen. If you must have a gang, make up one of good companions, who will teach you something that will do some good."

Judge DeLacy has a way of making a boy tell him just what the boy is when he has taken anything that does not belong to him.

"Now, what would you call the boy who took a watch of yours and didn't give it back?"

The biggest boy hung his head and twisted his cap and wanted to sink through the floor.

President and Speaker in a "Hoe Down" honors of fancy steps were even. The dancing followed the dinner.

The dinner ended, the company went to the east room, which boasts an ample and smooth dancing floor. An orchestra played a gentle waltz and the president led off with Mrs. Joseph H. Gaines, wife of the representative from West Virginia. The speaker, with Miss Laughlin, a sister of Mrs. Taft, glided out on the polished floor in the wake of his chief. Then the dance was on.

In the intermission, however, when the orchestra struck up a lively tune, Uncle Joe stepped briskly into the middle of the room and brought his heels together sharply. There was a patting of gloved hands and voices called, encouragingly to the guest of honor. In a moment the speaker's heels were swinging in a brilliant Highland fling.

"Excellent, eh?" he called, exultingly to Mr. Taft. "I was something of a dancer when I was a younger."

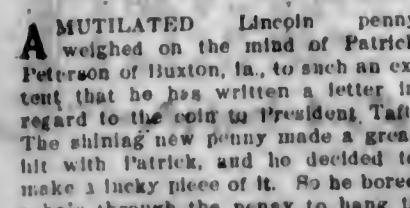

For answer the president stepped smilingly forward, and those who were present say the two executed several steps of an old-fashioned "hoe down" that delighted every one. Both were puffing when they finished.

Conscience Stricken, Appeals to Taft on a chain.

When the hole was bored Peterson remembered the law relative to mutilating coins. He searched his conscience and found himself to be a law-breaker. It is probable that he had in mind the power of the president of the United States to pardon offenders against the law when he wrote the following letter, inclosing the penny, which was received at the White House:

"President Taft, Washington, D. C.: Please bid one cent which I bored a hole in and feel very sorry for it. Hoping you will forgive me. Yours truly, Patrick Peterson, Buxton, Ia." P. S.—Hoping to hear from you."

A MUTILATED Lincoln penny weighed on the mind of Patrick Peterson of Buxton, Ia., to such an extent that he has written a letter in regard to the coin to President Taft. The shining new penny made a great hit with Patrick, and he decided to make a lucky piece of it. So he bored a hole through the penny to hang it

ON EASTER SUNDAY

SHORT REVIEW OF ETIQUETTE FOR THE DAY.

Proper Conduct for the Holy and Divinely Beautiful Sabbath—Undus Display of New Finery Not Appropriate for Occasion.

"You have helped me before, and now I want to ask you something that may think very funny. Is there any sort of etiquette for Easter Sunday; how to behave at church and home, you know, because it is Easter. I am not regular in church-going, but it seems to me everybody ought to do the right and polite thing on this lovely day."

So runs part of a sweet girlish letter from a maid of 17, and I take up my pen, as the old fashioned writers used to say, to answer it with print. There may be some other girls, and some very big boys, as well, who would like to know of proper conduct on this holy and divinely beautiful Sabbath.

Etiquette for Easter Sunday? Ah me, how many sermons might be written on the subject, for when is there a moment for more serupulous behavior? The book of mere politeness may not say much about it—indeed, I am sorry to say, cut and dried politeness rarely touch upon the holier things. But upon the four walls of the church which is so solemnly and jubilantly chanting its praises to God for everlasting life is written in letters of deathless fire all the sublime meaning of Easter. To the heart and mind, too, that can see at all there is all the world rejoicing for the one thing—that the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea has given up its dead. Etiquette for Easter Sunday? Ah, it begins with some faith in this great story; or else in a beautiful, even reverential respect for all those who have it. It continues with gratitude for the new life that is shown in field and tree, in a freshened heart for all earth; in a love that strives to forget self in all the little dealings, at home and abroad, with mere existence.

The disgruntled heart and sour countenance, then, have no place with Easter joy any more than has the willful conduct that mocks at a neighbor's piety. Granted we are sometimes dealing with common sense, the mere fire of spring, will tell us that we have much to rejoice for. The garment of the winter-locked earth has been made over—bud and leaf are near to tell us, too, that old fears may pass. And lovely music and resplendent flowers of the churches are telling us more; that there must be something in a story that loses no whit of its sublime beauty after two thousand years.

So much for the conduct of the heart and mind on Easter Sunday. But if we cannot tune our spirits to the diviner appeal, let us at least consider the common decenties.

It is the height of bad taste to allow the tinkling of profane piano tunes—as all music not sacred is—in a church-going neighborhood on Easter Sunday. And the man or woman who goes to divine service only on this day, and entirely for the purpose of hearing the fine music and seeing the flowers and fashions, must be very careful of his or her conduct in the house of prayer. It is customary for non-church members to wait until an usher comes forward to seat them; for the church, for the little while that intervenes between the benediction and the communion service is spent generally by the devout in prayer, and so loitering and talking with friends in the vestibule would be a very great nuisance.

Concerning any talk and other social interchange, the church is not the place for it, so to bow to friends at a distance or whisper at length to somebody in the pew even about the beauty of the flowers or music is a defection from taste, and conduct that may call down the reproof of some stern and pious old vestryman who has been looking on.

In fact, church etiquette for Easter Sunday, where the stranger is concerned, consists chiefly in doing nothing which would make you conspicuous or a nuisance to others. For the rest, a little genuine reverence is something that costs nothing and is always in keeping with taste; so if this has hitherto been lacking, try listening with a new heart to the triumphant songs of this most joyous of all Sabbath.

If they assume the right to visit them selves, they may be obnoxious to conservative worshippers. This resentment may seem incompatible with piety on the part of the church members, but these persons may have invited friends to their pews, and the presence of strangers coming ahead of these would doubtless cause considerable embarrassment later on.

Likewise a ridiculous display of new finery comes into the question, and so to those who fancy that Easter Sunday is only for the display of fine millinery, let me say that persons of good taste make a point of rather quiet church gowns on this day. There may be something new—indeed, the moment seems to call for it—but no hats which obstruct the view of others are worn, while the general get-up suggests rather a quiet richness than the latest mode.

In the Episcopal church it is proper for members to offer the stranger a prayer book open at the service, and for the recipient to endeavor to follow the readings and prayers with the proper responses. In a Catholic church the stranger must kneel with all the others with the elevation of the host, and likewise try to follow the rest of the service.

To wait only for the musical part of the service and rush from the church immediately before the collection will signify only one thing to the scandalized onlooker—the stranger is too stingy to pay God anything for the radiant moment that they have enjoyed. As to the Easter collection, it is generally taken up for a church debt, and as the stranger has drunk in some of that burdened temple's dearest sweetness why not pay for it just as he or she would for the theater or opera? Don't be mean then with your tithe when the plate comes round on Easter Sunday, for if you do nothing else you will at least pay your way.

Again, if the stranger has received dear comfort from the service, it is quite in the books to write the officiating clergyman a letter of thanks afterwards, when, if the charity can be afforded, it would be the right and sweet thing to enclose a bill comfortably big for the good gentleman's poor. After the service the non-member should immediately leave the church, for the little while that intervenes between the benediction and the communion service is spent generally by the devout in prayer, and so loitering and talking with friends in the vestibule would be a very great nuisance.

Concerning any talk and other social interchange, the church is not the place for it, so to bow to friends at a distance or whisper at length to somebody in the pew even about the beauty of the flowers or music is a defection from taste, and conduct that may call down the reproof of some stern and pious old vestryman who has been looking on.

For the rest, a little genuine reverence is something that costs nothing and is always in keeping with taste; so if this has hitherto been lacking, try listening with a new heart to the triumphant songs of this most joyous of all Sabbath.

Proper Bookplates

Let us plead in favor of the bookplate for all collectors of a library, no matter how limited in size. No one can tell what proportion his bookshelves may expand under the care and protection that the bookplate implies.

Given a name in every book—a pasted-in plate with name and date—the volume is necessarily regarded with more fondness by its owner, and is less likely to remain in some borrower's bookcase.

The bookplate at its simplest is within the reach of all. The elaborate and altogether artistic effect—the finished product—may be an impossibility to many. Don't wait for this. Consider it if you know an artist; one of the younger illustrators will do the work at a comparatively low rate—a few dollars. The cut and a first 50 pasters will not be exorbitant at some small printery.

The bookplate is dual. It goes into all of your books for all time. It is seen by you and by many, and it's by far more satisfactory to make yourself a tracing of some simple scroll or book or shield than to own the feeble effort of a dubious draftsmen.

Many are the designs to be copied from interesting volumes or illustrations. There are wreaths, candles, torches, lanterns, old lamps, each with its own significance. There is also the knocker, which is good; and the doorway, which is better.

Suggestions are here shown for the inclosing, within certain lines, of the design you may choose. The circular scroll or shield needs no line about it. The leaf and the scroll requires a square inclosure as a definite size for the plate, and the owl and book (symbol of wisdom and knowledge) is usually imprinted by the oval lines, which were drawn around the edge of a cup.

The bookplate should always provide ample space for printed or written name and smaller space for a date, otherwise it will have defeated its own end.

The plainest bookplate you have succeed in tracing or drawing may be taken through the regular process of cut-making and printing, or you may trace each one upon the small piece of parchment which you have cut the desired shape and size and ink it.

The actual hand-made bookplate is not to be despised, although it involves a considerable amount of time and labor. It is a good idea to have it done by a professional printer, and the cost will be reasonable. The price will depend upon the size and complexity of the design, and the number of copies required.

WAS FIRST PIONEER

ENGLISHMAN DISCOVERED GOLD IN CALIFORNIA.

Commander of British Warship Turned Pirates and Ransomed That Gold of California Must Be "Richly Auriferous."

A scarce book, which is thought to be the first in English to give an account of the discovery of gold in California, has been discovered. It is also an account of the exploits of Capt. George Shovelocke, one of the most notorious pirates of his time.

The title is "A Voyage Round the World, by Way of the Great Sea, Performed in a Pirate Expedition During the War Which Broke Out with Spain in the Year 1718." Shovelocke entered the British navy before 1700, and is said to have served under Venho. When the war with Spain began two vessels that were fitted out to cruise against the enemy were put under the command, respectively, of John Clipperton and Shovelocke.

Clipperton had the larger ship, the Success. The Speedwell, which Shovelocke commanded, was of 31 guns and 100 men. He conceived a grudge against Clipperton, and, taking advantage of a gale of wind a few days after their departure from England, separated from the Success, and did not fall in with her again for nearly two years. He hoisted an ambiguous ensign upon meeting a Portuguese vessel near the coast of Brazil, which made her captain believe Shovelocke was a pirate, and led to his paying as ransom a large sum of money and a quantity of valuable merchandise.

Shovelocke sailed along the coast of Brazil, capturing prizes and sacking and burning Payta. Then, to escape Spanish ships of war, he made for the island of Juan Fernandez, where his vessel was wrecked. From the remains of the Speedwell they built a small vessel of 30 tons, captured a Spanish ship of 200 tons burden, sent the crew off in the little bark, and then made the Isle of Quito, where they fell in with Clipperton's vessel, the Success, but again separated.

Shovelocke then captured at Bonsonate the Santa Familla of 300 tons, and when informed that peace had been concluded, hurriedly put to sea with his prize. On May 15, 1721, he captured another ship laden with stores and having on board more than $100,000 in coin.

He sailed north to California, noting that its soil was richly auriferous and that probably "the country abounds in metals of all sorts." He thus mentioned the gold of California 120 years before its modern discovery. It was said that he made £7,000 for himself out of the "Voyage." On arriving in London he was arrested on two charges of piracy, but was no quitted for want of legal evidence.

He was also charged by the owners of the Speedwell with defrauding them, but escaped from the king's bench prison and fled the country. The time and place of his death are unknown.

Courier's Home Circle

Why is it?

As we passed along the street on a recent Sunday we counted twenty-six young men, most of them in their teens, just budding into manhood, idling their time away. As we looked into their faces, many of them lighted up by the beacon rays of a poor cigar or the pernicious cigarette, we recognize them as young men blessed with comfortable homes, indulgent parents and loving sisters. We ask ourselves, why is it? Why do these young men prefer the unclean resorts, comfortless streets and mixed society, to the upholstered chair, the pleasant and comfortable surroundings of the family circle at home? Who can answer? are we charge the parents, in a degree, responsible for this state of affairs? Are these things as they would have them? Do you shut up your homes lest the sun should fade your carpets, and your heart lest a laugh should shake down a few of the musty old cobwebs that are hanging there? If you want to ruin your sons let them think that all social enjoyment must be left at the threshold when they come home. When once home is regarded as only a suitable place to eat, drink and sleep in, the work is begun that ends in gambling houses and reckless degradation. Better let the fire burn brightly in winter time and the doors be thrown open in summer and make the homestead delightful with all those little arts that parents so well understand. Half an hour of merriment within doors, and remembrance of a home blots out the remembrance of many a care and annoyance during the day, and the best safeguard that can be taken with them into the world is the unseen influence of a bright little home sanctum. Let parents ponder over these few suggestions.

A boy goes along the street at night and he sees a fine house beautifully lighted up and hears music, and he says, "I wish I was in there, but I have not been invited," and so he passes on. Here is the church of God lighted up with festivity and holy mirth, and the world passes along outside, hears the music and sometimes wishes it was inside, but says that it is not invited. Oh, invite the world to come in! Go out into the highways and hedges. Send a ticket of invitation printed in these words, "Come, for all things are ready."

There is a vast difference between a house and a home. The house is but the building and furniture, the outward shelter and gathering place of the household. The home includes the kindly family affection and the thoughtful care and ready sympathy and mutual confidence and trust of the members. A true home breathes the atmosphere of love. A child should be made to feel that his home is indeed a home, the happiest place in the world to him, not merely a outward shelter and resting place, but a center of enjoyment by love, the thought and remembrance of which shall be the safeguard of his life as he goes forth to the world, giving strength and proportion to his character, and turning his thoughts to all that may prepare for the heavenly home when the scenes of earth shall have passed away.

We often think, when sorrow's heavy mantle is thrown over us, that life is all shadow. Do we ever find it so? Ah no! As the golden rays of heaven's own light shine from behind the clouds after a storm, so does the light of God's countenance shine back of the clouds of sorrow and gives a peaceful soothing, calm to the tired heart. However deep the wound and fierce the conflict, sooner or later we realize that "He knoweth best and doeth all things well."

Mothers, how do you rule? By love or the much and often unjustly used rod? Is it love to rule so that the child is obedient through fear of you? Be more patient. Give a word of commendation, kindly little smile when your boy does the best he can. He will remember it in after years and, sitting by his own fireside, with his little ones around him, will tell them of his mother, who was ever ready to smile away the clouds and make his little heart swell with gladness.

If there is a mother who reads this column that ever expects to whip her child again, let us ask you something. Have your photograph taken at the time, and let it show your face red with vulgar anger and the face of the little one with eyes swimming in tears and the little chin dimpled with fear, looking like a piece of water struck by a sudden cold wind. If that little child should die, we can not think of a sweeter way to spend an

Don't Pay Too Much for Your Drugs and Medicines

Don't pay too little. One is as foolish as the other. Pay the reasonable price, but rather economize in other ways than buy medicine that is not right in price for it is sure to be not right in quality.

At Helm & Ellison's you can depend on the goods being positively right, and our solid policy always insures the price being right too.

Pay Helm & Ellison's price and get Helm & Ellison's quality and you will always be right.

autumn afternoon than to take that photograph and go to the cemetery, where the staples are clad in tender gold, and when little scarlet runners are coming like poems of regret, from the sad heart of the earth, and sit down on that mound and look at that photograph, and think of the flesh now dust, that you beat. Just think of it. We could not bear to die in the arms of a child that we had whipped. We could not bear to feel upon our lips, when they were withered beneath the touch of death, the kiss of one that we had struck.

The term "old maid" is fast dying out of use. Instead we hear the more elaborate title "Bachelor girl" used in speaking of girls who have left the luxuriant bower of girlhood and are just emerging into womanhood. We do not hear of "the sour old maid," but instead the "dear bachelor girls." The young men are certain that she is just the one to go to when they are in trouble. The girls claim her as their "big sister." Her life is one of beauty, one of devoted consecration to the right. Hoping links her to the future and memory to the past.

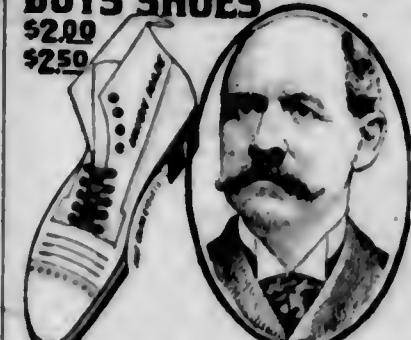

Says a father of a small family to us, "My boys and girls do not leave the door yard after seven o'clock unless especially detained." We know of others that adopted that same rule years ago and their sons and daughters are today a credit to the town and community. There is nothing elevating in a street education.

For Sprains

Sloan's Liniment is the best remedy for sprains and bruises. It quiets the pain at once, and can be applied to the tender part without hurting because it doesn't need to be rubbed—all you have to do is to lay it on lightly. It is a powerful preparation and penetrates instantly—relieving any inflammation and congestion, and reduces the swelling.

Here's the Proof. Mr. L. Roland, Bishop of Springfield, Pa., says: "On the 5th of this present month, as I was leaving the building at noon for lunch I slipped and fell, spraining my ankle. I returned in the afternoon, and at four o'clock I could not hold a pen in my hand. I returned home and purchased a bottle of Sloan's Liniment and used it five or six times before I went to bed, and the next day I was able to go to work and use my hand as usual."

Sloan's Liniment is an excellent antiseptic and germ killer—heals cuts, burns, wounds and contusions, and will draw the poison from sting of poisonous insects.
